

All About Farm Animals

twinkl

Cows

Cows live on a farm. They give us milk that we drink. Milk is also used to make dairy products like cheese, ice cream, butter, and yogurt.

Cows

Female cows give milk. A male cow is called a bull. A baby cow is a calf.

Male	bull
Female	cow
Baby	calf

Horses

Horses live on the farm and help the farmer.

Horses are used to pull wagons and trailers. Sometimes they are used to pull plows. People also ride horses.

Horses

Female horses are called mares, male horses are called stallions, and baby horses are called foals.

Male	stallion
Female	mare
Baby	foal

Goats

Goats live on a farm too. They can be milked just like a cow. Their milk can be used to make butter, cheese, yogurt, and even soap. A baby goat is called a kid.

Chickens

A female chicken is a hen. Hens lay 1 – 2 eggs each day.

A male chicken is called a cockerel. They wake the farm up every morning by saying, "Cock-a-doodle-do."

A baby chicken is called a chick.

Male	cockerel
Female	hen
Baby	chick

Geese

A female goose lays eggs, like a chicken. She will have 4 - 5 goslings at a time.

A male goose is called a gander.

A baby goose is called a gosling.

Geese live in ponds and enjoying swimming. They make a “honking” sound.

Male	gander
Female	goose
Baby	gosling

Pigs

We get pork, bacon, and sausage from pigs. Pigs live in a pen called a pigsty. It is usually filled with dirt or mud. Pigs like to roll and lay in the mud, because it helps them stay cool. They can't sweat like other animals.

Pigs

A female pig is a sow. A male pig is a boar. Baby pigs are called piglets.

Male

boar

Female

sow

Baby

piglet

Higher Order Thinking Questions

A colorful illustration of a farm scene. In the foreground, a white horse with a brown mane and tail is grazing. To its right, a brown tractor is parked near a red barn with a white door. In the background, there are green trees and a wooden fence. The sky is blue with a few clouds. The overall style is cartoonish and bright.

Why do pigs like to roll in the mud?

How are chickens and geese the same?

If you could be a farm animal which one would you be and why?

If you had a farm what kind of animals would you have and why?

Match the Mum and Baby

twinkl